Overall summary

We carried out an announced comprehensive inspection at Dr N Pillai and Dr L Nair (known as St Luke's Surgery) on 13 December 2018 as part of our inspection programme. The practice was last inspected in October 2015 and rated as good.

We based our judgement of the quality of care at this service on a combination of:

- what we found when we inspected
- information from our ongoing monitoring of data about services and
- information from the provider, patients, the public and other organisations.

We have rated this practice as good overall and good for all population groups.

We found that:

- The practice provided care in a way that kept patients safe and protected them from avoidable harm.
- Patients received effective care and treatment that met their needs.
- Staff dealt with patients with kindness and respect and involved them in decisions about their care.

- The practice organised and delivered services to meet patients' needs. Patients could access care and treatment in a timely way.
- The way the practice was led and managed promoted the delivery of high-quality, person-centre care.
- There was a strong focus on continuous learning and improvement at all levels of the organisation. For example: the practice had signed up to the IRIS (Identification and Referral to Improve Safety) project, regular practice education sessions and development of staff through external training opportunities.

Whilst we found no breaches of regulations, the provider should:

- Update the safeguarding policy to include information about modern slavery.
- Improve the identification of carers to enable this group of patients to access the care and support they need.

Details of our findings and the evidence supporting our ratings are set out in the evidence tables.
